

Independent Resource Centre Govan

Sheet 3 Finding a slot, something to do.

Common Good Awareness Project – Farmhouse Resource Centre

Mapping

Photography

Interviewing

Filming

IT Website Data base

Radio programs

Events organising

Skill share

Mentoring

Research

Art

Walking

There are many areas to chose from and learn from. Part of the process of our research will be to discover what people are interested in. How do we learn what would be useful tools to use when we plan, build and use our resource centre.

We need to be trained up and be ready to take responsibility before someone else does. We live in a country that is one of the least represented in Europe. Scotland is the least democratic country in the EU.

There is much talk about change from below, but very little activity or legislation to make it possible. The only change that usually makes any difference at the bottom is change that starts there.

There is plenty to do and much to learn. Finding the will to start can be the most difficult part and most crucial part. But once empowerment is achieved, it is very difficult to give up. No one knows what to do at first. It would not be research if we did. What is important is that we start. The rest will be picked up along the way.