

Scotland's Common Good Fund

The Common Good Awareness Project

Started

1491

What is it?

A whole pile of publicly owned assets that can be found in communities all over Scotland, worth tens of millions of pounds, consisting of buildings land and movable assets such as gifts to the city, art, furniture and jewellery.

What's happening to it?

The fund has laws to protect it. It is the responsibility of councils around the country to to steward the Common Good Fund for the benefit of its citizens. Over the years through lack of awareness and mismanagement, many of the funds have disappears, been lost or stolen.

1976

What should happen to it?

We believe the fund should be used for the benefit of the communities who own it. But we need your help in spreading awareness that the fund exists and to help identify CG assets

2015

To find out more:

Website for activities meeting workshops: commgood.wordpress.com

Drop in Every Thursday - CGAP 12 - to 4:00 Centre for Human Ecology Library
Pearce Institute, 840-860 Govan Rd, Glasgow G51 3UU.

Phone: 07811 263 923

Email info@inthecommongood.org

Helping to identify, record and register Scotland's 500 year old Common Good Fund